

LONG-TERM PLANNING

Preparing for the End of the Operating Agreement

What will you do at the end of the current operating agreement? Over the coming 10 years, more than half of all co-ops will come to the end of their operating agreement. Communication and planning become increasingly important as your co-op moves through this process. What's next? Explore the options and possibilities in this interactive workshops session.

This workshop covers the following:

- rights, by-laws and options for co-ops without agreements
- planning the communication process
- financial preparation for co-operative ownership
- working with your co-op federation partner
